DETAILED ACTION

Double Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 1-6 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-8 of allowed U.S. Application No. 09/926,461. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because claims 3-5 of the instant application require gums.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

Claim 4 recites "insoluble gums". However, the specification provided no examples and it is not clear what types of gums would be considered "insoluble".

5. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

6. Claims 1-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

7. Claim 1 recites "A liquid composition for casting into an edible film". However, the percentages listed in claim 1 define the "film" rather than the "liquid composition". It is not clear which is being claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

8. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

9. Claims 1-3 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ninomiya et al [Pat. No. 5,620,757].

Ninomiya et al teach an edible film comprising a mixture of polysaccharides comprising carrageenan, starches, tara gum, and locust bean gum (column 3, line 59 to column 4, line 37), carrageenan making up at least 10% of the film on a dry weight basis (column

Art Unit: 1761

4, lines 21 & 51), the other polysaccharides such as starch, tara gum, and locust bean gum making up less than 40% of the film on a dry weight basis (column 4, lines 21 & 51), a polyhydric alcohol in the form of glycerol (column 5, line 2), the amount of glycerol being at least 5% of the film on a dry weight basis (column 5, line 9; column 4, line 51), and less than 25% water (column 5, line 63).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

10. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

11. Claims 4 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ninomiya et al as applied above, in view of Meyers [Pat. No. 5,376,388].

Ninomiya et al teach the above mentioned components as well as coloring (column 4, line 55). Ninomiya et al do not recite hypoallergenic, high amylose starch, or cellulose components, or insoluble gums, or fibrous vegetable material, or glucans. Meyers teaches an edible film comprising cellulose derivatives (column 5, line 8), various gums (column 5, lines 12-15), glycerol (column 6, line 53), and high amylose starch (column 6, line 68). It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to incorporate the high amylose starch of Meyers into the invention of Ninomiya et al since both are directed to edible films, since Ninomiya et al already included starch in general (column 3, line 66), and since Meyers teach that high amylose starch was commonly used in edible films. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to hypoallergenic materials in the invention of Ninomiya et al since this would have greatly reduced the chances of consumers having allergic reactions to the food and since this was commonly done in the food industry.
